Calling Cards

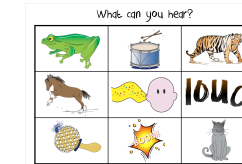

The calling cards are the small square cards with the pictures on them. See examples below.

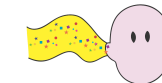

Turn all the calling cards face down on the table or stack neatly in a pile face down.

Each person must pick their own bingo card.

Make sure each person discusses and understands the pictures they have on the bingo cards. Decide on or create the sounds that will be used for each picture as it comes up.

The middle square is a free space and can be used to match any sound (not already on your card) called out by another person.

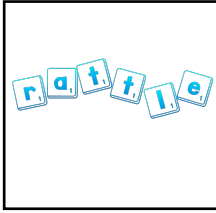

The caller chooses one calling card at a time and makes the sound for that card.

If the sound matches a picture on your own bingo card then that square on the card is covered with a counter.

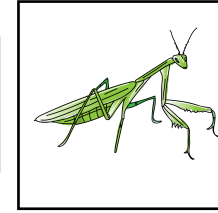

The winner is the first person to get pictures/sounds covered by three counters in a row. The row can be horizontal, diagonal or vertical.
